

SUGGEST UNDERPASS IN BUSINESS SECTION AS SAFETY MEASURE

The regular session of the City Council was held last Monday evening, with all members present and Mayor H. H. Smith presiding.

A request from the California League of Municipalities for a delegate from Daly City to meet in San Francisco on March 29, to form a sewer research department was referred to Councilman Moran and Engineer Klassen.

A suggestion to build an underpass under Mission street in the main business section of Daly City was discussed, the board feeling that this would add much to the safety and comfort of the residents, owing to the great increase of traffic along this street.

Te city engineer was instructed to gather data from Los Angeles and San Jose, where there are several underpasses now in use, and report at the next regular meeting of the Council.

Permission to place a "No Parking" sign in front of Goldie's Tire Shop, on Mission street, was placed in the hands of the police committee.

A communication from the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco, announcing that they had appointed Supervisor Fred Suhr as their representative to meet with the City Council on the widening of San Jose avenue, was received.

A report was made on the charge of neglect by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in cutting wires belonging to our fire alarm system, with the assurance that all employees of the company will be notified to be careful in the future.

After careful study by the Council of the telephone rates in Daly City, it has been reported that after the decision of the Railroad Commission is in effect, Daly City will have the same rates as San Francisco, and the mileage charge so long paid by our residents will be eliminated.

The library committee reported a record breaking month, and stated that the library now ranks among the best in San Mateo county.

The pound committee reported the capture of fifty-one dogs this month, and that the work of rounding up unlicensed dogs is being continued.

Many residents and property owners from the district around the county line interested in extending Irvington street from Templeton avenue to Acton street, were present at the meeting, and after some remarks by Mr. Anthony, Mr. Callom and Engineer Klassen, all agreed to meet again on April 10, in the City Hall. Engineer Klassen will draw a suitable map and present plans for the work to be done.

Chief Doyle was ordered by the Council to place signs on each end of the alley running between Alexander and Frankfort streets, from Templeton to Roosevelt, making this a one-way street, with no parking. This will add to the comfort of those living on Frankfort street who must use the rear of their lots for garage purposes.

Following the approval of salaries and bills for the month, the Council adjourned to meet again April 10.

LOCAL POLICE ARE PAID HIGH TRIBUTE

The March issue of "2-O," the official publication of the Police Department of San Francisco, publishes a splendid write-up as well as some very fine photographs, of Chief Doyle and his staff. The article is written by Jack Lawlor, former police reporter of the Daly News, and his verdict is that we possess one of the best police communities in the west. There is less crime, he says, than in city of its size, and its general welfare is a subject of continuous care by the very efficient force under Chief Doyle, who is himself on the job at all times. "Jack," as he is known to all and sundry, is by way of being one of California's crack shots, both with rifle and revolver.

ASSOCIATED FIREMEN MEET AT BAY SHORE

The regular monthly meeting of the Associated Firemen of San Mateo County was held in Bay Shore City on March 20. A large representation was present and much business of importance was transacted.

Among the speakers were Supervisor Thomas Hickey, Chief Curtis of Belmont, and Fire Commissioner Wanstand of Bay Shore City.

The fire boys of Bay Shore City surely put it on strong and everyone present enjoyed the meeting.

The next meeting of the Associated Firemen will be held at Half Moon Bay, April 17.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN HONOR OF MASONS

Members and friends of Crocker Lodge 454, F. & A. M., were guests of the Daly City Methodist church last Sunday evening. The church was filled to capacity, and one of the finest services of the year was enjoyed by the congregation.

A special musical program had been arranged by Mrs. James Bennett, as follows: Soprano solo, "The House by the Side of the Road," Mrs. James R. Bennett. Mixed Quartet, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain," Mrs. James Ferguson, contralto; Mrs. G. Gehring, alto; Mr. Stanley Lewis, tenor; Mr. James Ferguson, bass. Tenor solo, "One Star," Mr. Stanley Lewis. Prof. T. Eugene Goudey, pianist and musical director.

The pastor introduced Mr. William Kahrau, Worshipful Master of Crocker Lodge, who spoke a few words of appreciation in behalf of the members of the lodge.

The pastor in his sermon traced Masonry from "The Man's House," the oldest known organization in the world, to the part it is playing in building a better civilization today, through its character building ideals.

PRETTY WEDDING CEREMONY AT B'NAI ISRAEL SYNAGOGUE

Miss Lillian Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Becker, of 158 Los Olivos avenue, was married last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the B'Nai Israel Synagogue in Daly City, to Mr. John Schuman, of Oakland. Rabbi Burnstein performed the services under a canopy. It was a very pretty spring wedding.

The bride's sister, Miss Bernice Becker, was maid of honor, and Miss Mildred Ross the bridesmaid. Harold Ross was the groom's best man.

The flower girls were the little twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. Warshawski, Jane and Maxine. Sadie Abramson, of San Francisco, was the train bearer, and little Norma Weissman the ring bearer.

After the wedding a reception was held for the bride and groom at the bride's home, about 250 of their friends attending. A buffet supper was served, after which the guests enjoyed dancing. All the old time Jewish dances were enjoyed to the music of the violin and piano played by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warshawski, and Gail's orchestra furnished the music for the modern dancing.

After a week's honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Schuman will reside in Oakland.

METHODIST CHURCH WILL OBSERVE PALM SUNDAY

The Daly City Methodist church will observe Palm Sunday at the evening service. The pastor's subject will be "The Triumphal Entry," and Mrs. Bennett will sing "The Palms," accompanied by Prof. T. Eugene Goudey. We are sure that you will enjoy the service and the fellowship of this church.

Sunday morning the pastor's subject will be "What is Sin?"

Beginning Tuesday evening at 7:30 special Passion Week services will be held each evening. Tuesday evening subject, "The Divine Magnet."

Wednesday evening the Epworth League will have charge of the program. Dinner will be served at 6:30, followed by a program conducted by the California Conference Epworth League Gospel team. Reservations for the dinner will have to be made by Sunday. No one will be admitted without a ticket.

Thursday evening subject, "A Day of Farewells." Friday evening subject, "The Road to the Cross."

You ought to make it a point to be present at every one of these services, as you are not called upon very often to give you time to the service of the Master. This week belongs to Him. We ask you to make use of it by attending the services each evening.

ELLIOTT L. FISHER, Pastor.

CALIFORNIA GIVEN COMMUNITY TROPHY

California World war veterans have done more for the communities in which they reside than the veterans of any other state, national officials of the American Legion have decided, according to State Commander Phil Dodson of the Legion. As a consequence of the decision, the California state department of the American Legion has been awarded the James A. Drain trophy unanimously for the community service work of the various Legion posts throughout the state. The trophy was awarded on the basis of reports for the year 1927, when Dr. John F. Slavich, of Oakland, was state commander of the California Legion. Drain, the donor of the trophy, is a former national commander of the Legion and has been a frequent visitor to California.

Voters, Attention!

You are approaching election day, which comes April 9th, with the present incumbents seeking re-election, and with several new aspirants for the positions open in the field. Be sure to vote, and endeavor to make that vote one which will place in the various offices those who will give 100 per cent efficient service to Daly City, and devote their efforts to constant improvements of our municipality.

Two of those seeking re-election whom we all know and admire are Councilmen Henry Sundermann and Arthur J. Bodien.

Both have been residents of Daly City since the fire, and both have done much to make Daly City the "good place to live" that it has become today. Mr. Bodien is prominent in fraternal and labor circles, being a skilled machinist, a veteran fireman, a member of the Eagles' drum corps, and a charter member of the local Aerie. He has several times served as delegate to the American Federation of Labor conventions.

Mr. Sundermann is 40 years old, and for twenty of these forty years he has worked untiringly for the betterment of Daly City. He is a member of the Masonic order, and plays with the Scots band. With Councilman Bodien he was largely instrumental in getting the tax rate lowered from the former $1.90 to the present $1.50.

The point to be considered in the selection of a candidate to fill an office, if it be a present incumbent, is what he has done in his past period of office for the community. This will give any thinking voter a good idea of that same candidate's possibilities for the ensuing term. In the case of a new aspirant, one must be governed by one's judgment as to that person's ability to fill, to the satisfaction of all, efficiently and loyally, with no thought of self aggrandisement, the position sought. In the past few years, Daly City has climbed to the heights of service rendered by these men which make it second to none in municipalities of like size.

Let us, then, when we go to cast our vote on April 9th, help to give Daly City the finest material for the public offices voted upon, that it has ever had, as an aggregate. Vote, and vote to make Daly City "a good place to live."

CLUB WOMEN WORK OUT THEIR PROGRAM

The movement to suppress war and other public affairs occupied the state board of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, called together at Sacramento on March 24 by the State President Mrs. W. W. Green, for a final meeting preparatory to the convening of the state convention in San Diego on May 8.

Paving the way for an endorsement of the Gillette resolution making effective American participation in the International Court set up by the League of Nations, the board adopted unanimously a motion to submit the matter to Mrs. F. P. Wray, legislative chairman, for further consideration.

The same action of tentative approval was taken on the Capper resolution now pending in the United States Senate, which would outlaw war by compelling arbitration before hostilities were begun between two signatory powers.

Support of the state's park program was urged by Mrs. C. E. Parsons of Nevada City, a leader in conservation among the club women of California. "Save the forest primeval, and hand down to the next generation unspoiled the marvelous scenic beauties of the state," Mrs. Parsons said, exhorting her fellow women to work for the $6,000,000 bond issue which is to be submitted to the voters next November. A fund of $43,000 has already been accumulated by the federation for the purchase of a park site on the fifty-fifty basis provided in the law which requires every dollar the state spends to be matched by the same amount in a private donation.

The stricken club women of the Santa Clara river valley were not forgotten by their sister club women, and not only a general resolution of sympathy adopted, but financial aid to the Sausalito Woman's Club and others in the region offered.

The save-the-beaches program will have the backing of 70,000 organized club women of California, it was indicated by the recommendation that the resolution submitted by the Woman's Club of Long Beach be taken up at the approaching state convention.

Crippled children will be made one of the chief concerns of the federation with the organization of a club division for their care. Mrs. L. P. Crane, of Santa Ana, who has long been an earnest worker in the movement to rebuild these little unfortunates mentally and physically, will be at the head of the new club undertaking.

B. Milano, of Templeton avenue, suffered painful injuries about the back last Monday morning, while at work on a cement mixer at Colma.

FATHERS' NIGHT OBSERVED BY LOCAL P. T. A. MEMBERS

On Wednesday evening the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A. held a fathers' night at the Methodist church.

The program opened with the salute to the flag, followed by the P. T. A. song, with Mrs. H. F. Secour at the piano.

The President, Mrs. Rickman, after opening the meeting and the reading of the minutes, gave a report of the district meeting and read other reports.

Mrs. C. Sherwood, historian, gave a very good report on the work of the P. T. A. for the past nine months.

A program was then enjoyed, the following taking part: Piano duet by the Lang brothers. Recitations by John Denk and Bob Rogers. Two violin numbers by Jack Sanderson, accompanied by Mrs. Secour. Several selections were sung by the Glee Club, after which the meeting adjourned to partake of dainty refreshments, which were served in the banquet hall. The cakes served were made by the members in the cooking class of the Woodrow Wilson school, under the supervision of Miss Marshal.

Visitors are favorably impressed with Daly City.

George Ross, of Butte, Montana, and Guy Ross, of Los Angeles, were callers at the Record office last Wednesday. They are visiting their sister, Mrs. D. E. Williamson, in San Francisco, and came out to spend a few moments with the publisher of the Record, an old time acquaintance.

George Ross will probably locate in this section, and after his visit to Daly City, declared that he would in all probability make his home here should he move to California.

Guy Ross, who is a World war veteran, serving with the Canadian forces, discovered during his visit at this office that he and our own W. M. McGregor had served in the same division, the Second Canadian.

MRS. RAMPKE ENTERTAINS THE ROYAL NEIGHBORS

The Royal Neighbors were delightfully entertained on Tuesday evening by Mrs. A. Rampke at the home of Mrs. H. H. Smith, on Los Olivos avenue. The evening was spent in playing whist, after which dainty refreshments were served by the hostess to the following: Mesdames M. White, L. Natusch, L. Nelsen, J. Hedvall, G. Gehring, B. Burdick, E. Bruley, M. Appleton, C. Scott, A. Davie, M. Goodfriend, L. Landini, E. Twisten, A. Welsh, V. Wooldridge, H. Cliver, D. Putney, F. Bryant, M. Richardson, H. H. Smith; Misses Evelyn Smith, Myra Nelsen, Irene Smith, Onila Welsh.

ENJOYABLE PARTY AT FELLOWS HOME

A memorable gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fellows, of this city, last Saturday evening. Although it was just an impromptu affair, it turned out to be one marked with genuine hospitality and enjoyment without limit.

The first part of the entertainment was a feast of the finest American and French dainties, served in such shade of appetite was appealed to in a most convincing way. While the numerous courses were being appreciated in an appreciative manner, the toastmaster called upon the various outstanding representatives of municipal government, banking, the medical profession, dentistry, contracting, automobile industry, the trades, general politics, who were present and each responded in such a brilliant outburst of oratory that it was evident there was no lack of wit and wisdom. The ladies contributed music and choice singing, pleasing everybody.

The latter part of the evening was passed pleasantly in jolly dancing and games. Before the hour of departure had come the wish was unanimous that Mr. and Mrs. Fellows would soon find an occasion for another party.

The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. MacArthur, Dr. and Mrs. L. Hurtubise, Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Calsen, Mr. and Mrs. George Lagomarsino, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. Westkamper, Mr. and Mrs. Bellidoci, Mrs. E. Soubra, Mrs. R. Fellows, Mrs. L. Lombard, Prof. W. J. Savage.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT GRACE PRESBYTERIAN

The theme for Sabbath evening at Grace Presbyterian church will be, "Resuscitated, or the New Day." Special music will be had for this service. Mrs. McNair will sing "The Cry of the True Christian." We are also promised other special numbers.

Last Sabbath evening was a most inspiring and helpful service. The Communion was most impressive and sacred. Mr. James Reed sang two numbers, "The Sands of the Desert," and "The Holy City," and he had many words of appreciation and entreaties to come again.

Dr. Smith gave a most helpful message preparatory to the communion. Mr. Jack Carnegie was ordained as an elder of the church. Mr. Charles Pilgrim was baptized.

Mr. and Mrs. and Earl McCune, with Mrs. and Charles Pilgrim, were fellowshiped as members of the church, and so we feel that the work is growing in interest and power.

There will be a union sunrise prayer service on the hill near the water reservoir on Easter morning at 6:30. Rev. Fisher of the M. E. church will speak and special music will be provided and a real resurrection meeting is being planned, and we hope that many will avail themselves of this early worship.

The Ladies of the Guild meet in their regular sewing circle on Wednesday and are planning for the regular noon day luncheon on next Wednesday at 12 o'clock. A good meal and a good time is assured all that may come. On Wednesday Mrs. Noble surprised the ladies of the Guild by serving cream chicken and hot biscuits, and all enjoyed the surprise.

We are glad to know that Mrs. Turner is much improved after more than a week of an attack of flu.

CHAS. H. GATCHELL, Minister.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT GETS SIX MONTHS

Sentence of six months in the county jail for one youth and $100 fine for each of the three others charged with an assault on a 16-year-old Daly City girl, were imposed by Superior Judge George H. Buck last week. Nicholas Ricci, alleged leader of the gang who mistreated the girl, Miss Minnie Webster, was given the jail sentence, and the three fined were Sam Merecci, Vincent Merecci and Vincent Palma. All four youths reside in San Francisco.

The parents of Ricci were in court when the jail sentence was imposed, and the mother of the youth broke down and wept bitterly as the son was led from the room by the deputy sheriff in charge of the prisoners.

NEW BOOKS AT LIBRARY

The John D. Daly library is increasing its supply of new books. Among the latest supply of the most popular and most wanted fiction are: "Jalna," by De La Roche; "Claire Ambler," by Booth Tarkington; "Kitty," by Warwick Deeping; "Death Comes for the Archbishop," by Willa Cather; "A President is Born," by Fannie Hurst; "Forlorn River," by Zane Grey.

FIVE MILE CHANNEL DREDGED FOR SPAN FROM COYOTE POINT

More than five miles of channel have already been dredged across the bay between San Mateo and Hayward as part of the preliminary work necessary for the Coyote Point bridge, according to a report made to the San Francisco Bay Toll Bridge Company by A. W. Deuel, resident engineer in charge of the project.

The channel is to extend almost the entire width of the bay, with the exception of the central portion, where there is deep water. The channel is required to float materials and equipment into place for the construction of the bridge, which has to be accomplished from the water owing to the natural conditions on the shore. The channel has been dredged for a total length of 27,700 feet, Deuel reported.

A fleet of dredges has been engaged for several weeks on this work, while several drag-line dredges have been throwing up embankments for the approaches on either side of the bridge. On the west side about 62,500 cubic yards of fill have been placed for the approach, and on the east side about 14,500 yards.

At the Alameda yards, where the concrete work for the bridge is being done, 395 concrete piles have been cast to date, and the special four-pile driver, which is to be utilized for sinking them, has been practically completed. The actual driving of the piles which will support the viaduct portion of the bridge will begin during April, it was stated.

CALIFORNIA RANKED SECOND IN AUTOS

Automobile owners will be interested to know and will take pride in the fact that the state of California ranks second in the Union in the number of automobile registrations and also in the number of automobiles.

Motor vehicle registration totals for the forty-eight states, Hawaii and the District of Columbia, at the beginning of this year were reported a few days ago by the California State Automobile Association. The figures were gathered from official sources by George S. Grant, manager of the association touring bureau.

The compilation shows a total registration of 23,276,339, of which 3,047,483 are trucks and motorcycles, and the balance, 20,228,856, automobiles.

New York is the only state that tops California, the comparative figures being: New York, total registered, 1,893,866; automobiles, 1,574,051. California, total registered, 1,403,100; autos, 1,479,411.

SCOUTS PREPARING FOR MEET IN APRIL

Every Boy Scout registered in San Francisco district has written and mailed to some active promoter of Scouting in the East an invitation to attend the eighteenth annual conference of the organization's National Council to be held in San Francisco, April 9, 10 and 11.

Responses thus far received are many and aid the reception committee in estimating the number of people it will be called upon to provide with living accommodations. Already it is evident that at least 5,000 outsiders must thus be cared for.

As it will be the National Council's first meeting west of Chicago, and many men prominent in finance, commerce, industry and philanthropy will be among the delegates, the city's business and other organizations are co-operating with the committees arranging for it, and the municipal government is also contributing whatever aid it can give to make the event memorable. During the conference the leading thoroughfares and big department stores will be lavishly and appropriately decorated.

While previous annual meetings of the National Council have been attended by delegates only, most of the sessions this year will be open to Scoutmasters, Troop committeemen, merit badge examiners, members of the local council's executive board and promoters of the Scout movement in the Twelfth region, embracing California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona.

The banquet which is to be held Tuesday evening, April 10, at the Palace Hotel, will be attended by four state governors and many citizens of nationwide celebrity, including Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and National Scout Executive James E. West.

Old Time Resident Passes
William J. Murray, one of the best known and most prominent old time residents of Menlo Park, passed away Monday at his home following a long illness.

NICARAGUANS TURN DOWN ELECTION BILL

The refusal of the Nicaraguan Chamber of Deputies to pass the McCoy electoral bill, providing for American supervision and insuring fairness in the approaching presidential election in that country, is evidence of the fact that the Conservatives under the leadership of Diaz were not so sincere in their expressed desire to Colonel Stimson for a fair supervised election. Obviously, it is clear to them that the majority of their fellow countrymen are not in favor of the administration continuing to remain in their hands, as this bill was defeated by their efforts. Fifteen of the seventeen who voted for its passage are members of the Liberal party.

Before the intervention by United States Marines, the forces of the Liberals were gradually defeating the forces supporting Diaz and the former were approaching the capital city,

Managua. Seeing that they were in imminent danger of defeat and overthrow the Conservatives gladly welcomed the Marines of this country, and when it was proposed by Colonel Stimson that both parties lay aside their arms and await the outcome of the next election they agreed along with the Liberals. Now those in power express their gratitude to the United States by refusing to pass a law which makes a fair election possible.

This refusal does not back the statements and contentions concerning the integrity and honesty of Diaz and his regime made by those responsible for the seemingly uncalled for intervention by the United States in the affairs of that small country. To state it in a popular phrase "it leaves them without a leg to stand upon."

Conditions in Nicaragua remain about the same and apparently the lives of a goodly number of American Marines have been uselessly sacrificed. Yet the position of the United States is similar to that of one who has crissed a river and burned the bridge. Our word has been given that recognition shall be given to the victorious party of the next election and that that election shall be fairly conducted. Yet, since the Chamber of Deputies has refused to pass laws providing for United States supervision of the election in October, it is wondered how the promise is to be fulfilled. It has been predicted that President Diaz will be called upon to issue an order to take the place of the bill that failed to pass. This prediction causes two questions. Will Diaz give such an order, and even if he should, would it be legal?

It has been stated officially that President Coolidge does not know that ratification of American supervision by the Nicaraguan Congress was absolutely necessary. On the other hand, without ratification it becomes necessary to force upon an administration that has been recognized by the United States something that is entirely adverse to their sentiments.

All in all the situation presents a dilemma that is hard to solve, one in which most any solution leads to further difficulties. In the meantime the forces of American Marines in that country are suffering almost daily casualties.

SOMETHING NEW

An army sergeant has devised a new method of mine control which is expected to save the War Department $100,000 a year.

The German foreign office is testing a machine designed to record conversations in typewritten form.

Again it is claimed that a non-inflammable gasoline has been invented, this time by a French chemist.

Airplanes are being used in Italy to scatter Paris green over marshes in order to kill malaria mosquitoes.

A new invention for household use washes and dries carpets without removing them from the floor.

MANY TRAFFIC OFFICERS INJURED IN LINE OF DUTY

Ninety-one of the 247 officers employed by the counties as members of the state traffic force have been injured in the performance of their duty within the past twelve months, the Division of Motor Vehicles announced last Monday.

Of this number three have been killed, four others have been practically disabled for life, while ten others have received major injuries.

The others were victims of accidents resulting in broken noses and fingers, bruises and contusions.

Illustrative of the hazardous character of the work, the division announced this to be a casualty loss of 37 per cent, percentage in killed and injured greater than any army suffered during the World war.

"This," said Frank G. Snook, chief of the division, "is an entirely new angle of the traffic situation, not considered by the average motorist. Many are inclined to think of the traffic officer as a necessary nuisance, to be avoided if possible and to be tolerated if they are caught violating the law and come in contact with him."

"Few think of him as risking his life and limb, which he does daily, as shown by these figures, to protect them on the highway."

"I can think of no calling that is so hazardous. Our men are forced to drive at high rates of speed in all kinds of weather and under all kinds of adverse conditions to enforce the law. They are compelled to take risks that no other person would have to take."

"Try to think of the traffic officer as a human being the next time you are stopped, and remember he is handling a tough job."

BOYS AND GIRLS

Arnold Santi, a 6-year-old boy of Villa Park, Ill., has already shown marked ability as a composer of music has been acclaimed a genius by members of the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

Known as "Young Samson," the 8-year-old son of a famous strong man of Germany can bend heavy iron bars with his hands and drive nails into boards with his bare fists.

Apparently born dead, a baby of Mrs. William Ross of Detroit was restored to life by the injection of three drops of adrenalin.

Raymond Cull of Chicago, now 14 years old, recently ate solid food for the first time after an operation on his throat, which had been obstructed since his birth.

Frank Tyree, aged 13, is an honorary colonel on the military staff of Governor Sampson of Kentucky.

Jack Tait, 9-year-old pianist of Jacksonville, Florida, has won contests in Florida, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina, and is considered one of the most promising young artists in the country.

Alice Rounding, a crippled girl of Manchester, England, won first prize in a musical contest, singing from her wheel chair.

It is said that physicians live longer than the average person. Possibly because they seldom take medicine.

What a year for listening! Don't be left out

PRESIDENTIAL YEAR! Politics popping all over the lot!

Remember "Twenty-four votes for Underwood" four years ago? Remember how you said the thrill of that one convention repaid many times the price of your radio set? Remember what you missed if you had no radio—or a poor one?

This year radio is playing a much bigger part. Both parties are preparing for a campaign inside American homes—by radio.

Tunney is signed to fight twice. Man! What a year—by radio.

And the programs NOW. Tonight! Tomorrow night! The headlines of music—of politics—of everything—are on the air—NOW. Don't put off buying your new Atwater Kent A. C. set until the last moment before the conventions. Enjoy the wonderful things radio brings now. When summer comes—you're ready.

Get the set that's always ready—for a convention, a concert, a fight or a frolic—the modern set—the set that has changed everybody's conception of radio—that is going into far more homes than any other—the new, self-contained A. C. set—the Atwater Kent 37. Batteries can't run down—for there are no batteries. The house current costs only a fraction of a cent an hour. And the FULL-VISION Dial, which you read at a glance! How swiftly and surely and clearly it brings in your station!

Going to School in Clouds

Candidates for army air officers' commissions go to school in the clouds at a midwestern flying field. A plant that holds six students, an instructor and pilot has been fitted with comfortable, padded chairs, a blackboard and other equipment, and, while the ship sails along, the teacher gives lectures with the aid of the board and the class makes notes and reports. Each passenger wears a parachute and both doors of the plane are fitted with levers which can be pulled to cause the doors to fall clear for a ready exit in case of trouble.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Overlooked by Soviet

Nikolaiev, Ukraine, founded by Emperor Nicholas I in the early part of the Nineteenth century and the largest Black sea port after Odessa, is the only remaining one of importance in the Soviet Union which still bears the name of one of the czars.

When a debtor puts on airs and his creditors get wind of it, they sometimes come to blows.

A cannibal is one who loves his fellow men.

Four-Day Atlantic Liners

Keels for ten passenger liners, the fastest ever built, will be laid in American shipyards next spring. If present plans are carried out, as the first step to link America and Europe with four-day passenger service. Even that record may be speeded up in good weather by using airplanes to reach the ships hundreds of miles at sea, and to leave them at equal distances from the coast. Each vessel is to be provided with a landing deck for airplanes. Plans for the high-speed ships have been drawn, and the hull model already tested in the towing basin at the Washington navy yard. The ten ships will cost $150,000,000.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

During the third quarter of 1927 exports of merchandise from California were valued at $68,202,018, compared with $72,985,978 during the corresponding period of 1926, a decrease of $4,783,960, according to figures made public by the Department of Commerce. California was the fourth largest among the States during the quarter, improving its position from the second quarter when it ranked fifth. California was topped only by New York, Texas and Michigan.

Five new lilacs, the last plants with which Luther Burbank worked prior to his death, are in bloom on the experimental farm near Sebastopol and are declared to be among the most beautiful species of lilacs known. They are described as a very large double white "hose-in-hose"—double white and a double purple of the same variety. Prior to his death Luther Burbank told correspondent that he felt confident he would produce from his experiments the finest of all lilacs.

Declaring that the state traffic officers' force is self-supporting and actually costs the taxpayers nothing, George F. Moynahan, acting chief inspector of the division of motor vehicles, announced last week that the officers received $640,412.86 in salaries last year but were responsible for collection of $468,748.42 in fines and delinquent fees. Moynahan said the traffic officers stopped 234,733 persons on the highways during 1927 and arrested 67,913.

Approximately 300 United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps and California National Guard planes, flying in one dense mass formation over San Diego, will be the spectacle which will be unfolded to Southern California about August 30. The flight, which will be the climax of two months of intensive aerial battle maneuvers by the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet, will eclipse any aeronautical event of its kind in flying history.

Governor C. C. Young and members of his family narrowly escaped what might have been a serious automobile accident last week on the Freepoint road south of Sacramento. The car containing the governor and his party swerved from the highway and was brought to a safe halt with difficulty when a rod connecting with the steering wheel, in the hands of Miss Barbara Young, the governor's daughter, suddenly snapped and threw the machine out of control.

California highway contracts aggregating $5,336,818 will be awarded during the next four months. In making this announcement B. B. Meek, State director of public works, asserted that the March program of the division of highways calls for the award of contracts and requests for bids for work totaling $4,250,000. Projects included in the March program are located in nineteen counties and its volume and wide distribution are expected by Meek to provide an important factor in relieving unemployment.

The State Board of Education has approved the plans of State Architect George B. McDougall, Forum building, Sacramento, for the Chico State Teachers' College to replace structures destroyed by fire. The construction program will be undertaken as follows: (1) immediate construction of a $200,000 main classroom building; (2) recommendation to the 1929 legislature for appropriations to erect a second unit of the development program, an assembly building of undetermined size and cost; (3) recommendation to the legislatures of 1931, 1933, 1935 and 1937 for further appropriations to erect units including library and science buildings, classroom buildings and training quarters. This will distribute the cost over the 10-year period.

With the arrival at San Quentin prison of William Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, eight murderers are awaiting execution in California's two penitentiaries, it was announced at the governor's office last week. At Folsom prison Willard D. Shannon, convicted in Amador county of killing Harold Lage, Stockton automobile salesman, is under sentence to go to the scaffold May 4. April 27, the execution date fixed for Hickman at San Quentin, is also the day on which Edgar Lapierre, Alameda county slayer, is scheduled to mount the gallows at the same prison. The five other murderers under death sentences at San Quentin are: John Joseph Malone, Los Angeles county, to be hanged May 4; Mark Dowell, San Francisco, on appeal; Lonnie Johnson, Merced county, to be hanged May 11; Joseph Troche, Eldorado county, on appeal; Clarence Kelly, San Francisco, to be hanged May 11.

The state forestry department is preparing for a season of numerous forest fires. Fearing that light snowfall in the mountains this winter presages a summer season of excessively low humidity with a consequent aggravated fire situation, State Forester M. B. Pratt Barron, state inspector at Souls, said a few days ago that cleaning up of the forests and brush areas has been in progress all winter. Inspectors have burned over large areas of brush lands, burned slashings, cleared brush from roads and highways and have carried on general inspection work.

POTATOES AND SCIENCE

"I heard," said a potato skin, lying on the kitchen table, to another potato skin, not far off, "the mistress of the house telling the cook that a great, great, man had made a study of us several years ago and had decided that we were very nourishing."

"There used to be a horribly unfair time when skins were not considered a good at all."

"But that day has passed. The potato skin is receiving fair treatment and justice at last."

"What is justice?" asked the second skin.

"Justice," said the first potato skin, "is being just and fair."

"I see. Well, go on with your story, and forgive me for the interruption."

"I don't know much about manners. I haven't been in the world enough."

"The ground is no place for manners, you know; at least, I don't think so."

"Then our chief callers and friends were the potato bugs. They're not overly mannerly."

"I will forgive you," said the first potato skin.

"Anyway, as I was telling you a great professor made a study of us and decided we were healthful and good, and that for people who didn't care much for the taste of the skins, we could be ground very fine and cooked with cream."

"Isn't it wonderful to think professors study us and our good points?" said the second potato skin.

"It does sound mighty fine," said the first potato skin.

"Somehow, one doesn't think of the two together—professors and potatoes, but it is nice to think that we are high enough up to be the companions of professors."

"Ah, we're potato skins, we are, great potato skins and professors have studied us!"

Ice Cream of Old

Promoted suddenly to public favor during the past twenty years, ice cream is popularly regarded as a comparative novelty imported from America. Most people are surprised to learn that it was esteemed a delicacy in Italy more than nine centuries ago.

To reconcile the ice cream bricks and cornets of today with the visored helmets and drooping plumes of mediaeval Europe is difficult for modern domesticated minds. But in all probability William the Conqueror, Richard Coeur de Lion, and many another popular hero cooled parched throats with ice cream after a dusty fray. Ice cream was merely rediscovered in America.

The cooks of the tyrannical Catherine de Medici are said to have introduced the secret recipe for ice cream into France in the Sixteenth century, and to them also is attributed the invention of the delicacy by certain authorities.

That the Pilgrim Fathers carried an ice cream recipe on their voyage in the Mayflower is improbable. To the best of our knowledge the secret was unknown in America when they weighed anchor.

In 1718 ice was cut on Lake Wenham, near Boston, and sent to New York for use in the manufacture of ice cream.

Astounding Power Fact

All the crashes of lightning in the world produce, at any given time, power equal to less than one-twentieth of the light and power companies in the United States, according to computations based on estimates of F. W. Peck, Jr., consulting engineer for the General Electric company.

There is an average of 1,800 thunderstorms in progress in the world at any one instant, according to Mr. Peck. These give 300,000 flashes per hour, of 1,500,000 horsepower operating continuously.

This is compared with the 32,500,000 horsepower capacity of generating stations in the United States.

Ohio Village Reborn

Ohio's old town of Schoenbrunn, two miles southeast of Cleveland, is the state's newest village as well, for it now has one house, which is more than it has had in more than a century. This structure is a copy of the log cabin built by Rev. David Zeisberger, Moravian missionary, who founded the settlement May 3, 1772. By August of that year, Schoenbrunn became a thriving settlement of some sixty houses of hewn timber. Then the site was lost for 146 years, being discovered in 1923 by excavation.

OFFENSIVE ADVERTISING

Millions of dollars spent on advertising are worse than wasted, because the advertising is in itself offensive or annoying, through being forced upon people at inopportune times and inappropriate places.

A billboard that mars the scenery or glares at one from otherwise attractive surroundings is not a builder of good will for those who use it. To be forced to sit in a picture show looking at advertisements on the screen, when one wants to see the program he has paid to see, is not likely to make one rush to the advertisers who thus annoys him. When one is listening to the radio and the announcer begins an advertising harangue, the usual result is that the listener immediately turns the dial to get some other station.

Newspaper advertising has none of these obnoxious features. The reader can select the advertisements in which he is interested, without having to read or listen to those which do not at the time appeal to him. Consequently, newspaper advertising gets results, because it is read for the aid it gives in planning purchases.

No intelligent advertisers would think of trying to build up business through using billboards, the screen or the radio alone; or with any combination of the three.

But many thousands have built up great businesses through advertising in newspapers alone.

Postmaster General New thinks 25-year sentences for mail robbers are inadequate. Particularly when the robbers can not be induced to serve them."

Golf playing by midshipmen at Annapolis is to be made compulsory. We hate to see Uncle Sam encourage profanity and prevarication like that.

YOUTH NOT WORSE

For a good while it has been the fashion among certain writers and speakers to condemn young people of the present, charging them with being wild, frivolous, immoral, and what not. The escapades of the small minority have been held up as representing the tendencies of the entire body of modern youth.

Many thoughtful persons who are in a position to observe real conditions do not take this view, however, but incline to the belief that the younger generation will compare favorably with those of "the good old days."

President James R. Angell of Yale University is one who believes that the students of today seem on the average to be distinctly superior to those of former times in "breadth of outlook, sincerity, range and vividness of intellectual interest and essential stability of character."

As an educator for thirty-five years, President Angell has had the opportunity to observe many thousands of students. His view concerning present day youth is therefore entitled to respectful consideration. It would seem to us that the learned professors are eminently correct in his conclusions.

SENSE AND SPEED

It has been rather well established that laws which arbitrarily fix speed limits for automobiles are little protection against accidents. The speed at which one may safely drive depends upon the road and traffic conditions involved.

A high executive of one of the leading automobile manufacturing companies, who has made a close study of speed in its relation to accidents, declares that 50 or even 60 miles an hour over good open roads in the country may be safer than 15 miles an hour in cutting corners in town.

The safe driver is not necessarily the slow driver, but one who uses common sense, whether driving fast or slow. Careless driving while turning corners, passing pedestrians or other cars, crossing railroad tracks and maneuvering in congested traffic is the greatest menace to life and limb.

Sense, not speed, is the important factor in determining whether a driver is safe or unsafe.

"DON'T'S" FOR WRITERS

Most advice to writers consist of long lists of "don'ts." And if you ask us, if we were really giving advice we should embody it in one big "Don't." It would be: Don't pay too much attention to lists of "Don'ts."

Obviously a writer should have a working knowledge of the language, including familiarity with the rules of syntax, and at least a nodding acquaintance with rhetoric, and some other phases of the phrase-making art, the names of which have for the moment escaped us.

The beginner should stick rather closely to the rules, at least until he learns how to break them effectively. Adherence to a severe style is a safe course until one really has something to say. Then, if ever such a thing happens, it is a good idea to say it in the most direct and forceful manner possible, even though a rule or two gets smashed in the process.

On the other hand, rules should not be broken merely for the sake of hearing their bones crack. If the thought can be conveyed attractively by a strict observance of all the niceties, well and good. But some writers appear to be more concerned with displaying their knowledge of the rules than they are with expressing an alleged idea they have in mind. Consequently their productions have about as much animation and warmth as the text of a chattel mortgage.

Language is primarily designed for the expression of thought, or the concealment thereof. In either case, rules are a means and not the end. The important thing is to make plain what you are driving at, as well as that at which you are driving.

ELECTRICAL GROWTH

One of the outstanding developments of recent years is the almost phenomenal growth of the electrical industry, which many regard as being still in its infancy. Thomas A. Edison recently declared that "the electrical growth of America has only well begun," and added:

"So long as there remains a single task being done by men or women which electricity could do as well, so long will electrical development be incomplete."

With electric light and power service now available to practically all cities and towns with a population of 1,000 or over, as well as a large percentage of smaller communities, it is evident that future expansion of the industry will lead to its extension to the rural districts, and a good start in that direction has already been made.

A high official in the industry recently said that in the last three years 105,000 farms have been supplied with electrical service, an increase of 186 per cent in the number of farms so supplied. The South has been a leader in this movement, particularly the state of Alabama, according to the same authority, but the development is not confined to any section, being practically nation-wide in extent.

Agricultural colleges, power companies and the farmers are co-operating in many states in working out plans for rural electrification and putting those plans into effect. The ultimate result will be relief from much of the drudgery which heretofore has been inseparable from farm life.

The world's most precocious child has been found in New Jersey, where a 4-year-old set fire to a house with a pocket cigarette lighter.

The patrons of the New Colma Theatre will be interested in knowing that a slight change in this theatre's policy will be made effective with the week starting April 1. Instead of remaining closed on Monday nights, as heretofore, the management has arranged for a two day program for Monday and Tuesday of each week. In inaugurating this policy the Garibaldi Bros., who now manage this theatre, have secured some of the season's best and biggest pictures for this new program, starting April 2 and 3. The balance of the week is taken up with a double bill on Wednesday evening, and another two day program Thursday and Friday. Saturday and Sunday remain as separate programs, with a matinee on Sunday at 2 p. m. Free candy is given to the kiddies and the same program is shown as at the evening performance.

Veterans' hospital at Palo Alto.

MANY MAKE THEIR LIVING BY DRIVING MOTOR VEHICLES

The Division of Motor Vehicles announces that 111,093 Californians made their living during the last year by driving motor vehicles. This announcement is based on the total number of chauffeurs' licenses issued by the division during the year. For the privilege of so operating, the chauffeurs paid a total of $225,227.50 during the year. The major portion of this was represented by the regular license fee of $2, but some was for lost licenses and badges.

Coincident with this announcement, George F. Moynahan, acting chief inspector of the division, stated that officers were prepared to launch a drive aimed at chauffeurs who have thus far failed to renew their licenses. Moynahan urged chauffeurs to forward their fees at once and avoid the inconvenience of arrest and possible suspension of the privilege to drive. Any person who receives compensation for operating a motor vehicle is designated by the law as a chauffeur. Chauffeurs must be over 18 and are required to take a special examination of their ability to drive and knowledge of the motor vehicle act. Drivers of school busses must be at least 21.

Melba Sparks, 15-year-old 4-H club girl of Carrollton, Ga., won first prize for the southern states in a recent essay contest, taking as her subject "The Marketing of Cotton in My Community."

Percy and Robert Raw, twin babies of Hawthorn, England weighed only two and a half pounds each at birth, but now weigh seven and six pounds, respectively.

Even if Harry Sinclair can't be put in jail, he ought to have a slap on the wrist.

Reports of Sandino's flight, capture and death appear to have been somewhat overdrawn.

What has become of the old-fashioned editor who used to write about foreign war debts?

An efficiency expert might make a good thing out of salvaging buttons from the laundries.

Speaking of oratory, Senator Heflin appears to be making a bid for the endurance flight record.

An exchange wants to know whether all the girls in Great Neck, Long Island, are Great Neckers.

We do not read so much lately about the flapper. Has she turned out to be a flop?

Appropriately enough, Pittsburgh's largest food store is run by a Mr. McCann.

SIDELIGHTS

Fortunately for many, freaks are not taxable as such unless they work at it. A Texas calf with eight legs was assessed an occupation tax when placed on exhibition, through a ruling by the state attorney general.

O. O. McIntyre declares that the present day hair-bobbing fad started when Irene Castle was forced to have her locks clipped after a spell of fever. Anyway, no fever was ever more contagious than the fashion she started.

A spiral automobile sign which winds its way around the Eiffel tower in Paris is to be removed because of protests by the public and a violent campaign against it by the newspapers. The protests have given the automobile manufacturer so much free advertising that he doesn't need the sign any more.

Ruth Elder says she would like to go on the stage, but that she can neither sing nor dance. We admire her for being so conscientious, but a good many stars have not allowed little handicaps like that to interfere with their ambitions.

Because the court record failed to show that he "persisted in his plea" of guilty to killing a man, Joe Chapman of Illinois was released on a writ of habeas corpus after being sentenced to the penitentiary. Isn't the law wonderful?

The newest political movement has popped up in Denver, where incorporation papers have been filed for the "Companionate Marriage Political Party," whose object is to promote legislation to legalize trial marriages. Cynics may suggest that most marriages involve trial enough already.

A good many fear that Lindbergh will fly once too often and meet with disaster. Still one can never tell what may happen, or how. Bobby Leach went over Niagara Falls in a barrel unharmed, and later slipped on an orange peel in the street, receiving injuries which caused his death.

Holds-ups and practical jokes do not go well together. At least they made a fatal combination for Ernest Fields of St. Louis, a former soda dispenser who had turned bandit. Fields held up and robbed 11 persons in a drug store and then made them each drink a soda which he served them. While playing his little prank four policemen arrived and shot him to death when he offered resistance.

The BABY

No mother in this enlightened age would give her baby something she did not know was perfectly harmless, especially when a few drops of plain Castoria will right a baby's stomach and end almost any little ill. Fretfulness and fever, too; it seems no time until everything is serene.

That's the beauty of Castoria; its gentle influence seems just what is needed. It does all that castor oil might accomplish, without shock to the system. Without the evil taste. It's delicious! Being purely vegetable, you can give it as often as there's a sign of colic; constipation; diarrhea; or need to aid sound, natural sleep.

Just one warning: It is genuine Fletcher's Castoria that physicians recommend. Other preparations may be just as free from all doubtful drugs, but no child of this writer's is going to test them! Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Castoria is worth its weight in gold.

Bakersfield, Calif.—"I had a nervous breakdown, unable to leave my bed. I was under the care of a doctor, but was not getting along as well as I thought I should, so I started taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it is the tonic and nerve restorer that restored me to health. Its soothing effect upon my nerves was wonderful while taking the first bottle, but I continued its use until I had taken five bottles and was then completely restored to health. I have never had a physical or a nervous breakdown since, which proves the thoroughness of the 'Prescription' in reaching the source of the trouble and then overcoming it."—Mrs. Gertrude Higley, 1224 Truxton Ave. All dealers.

And now, as at this instant they heard the car start away again, the accusation in her inquisitor's gaze deepened; for Mr. Creighton was sure that it was seeing his father's car at the door that had made Marvin drive on. The girl was a liar and a schemer. In the very act of waiting here for his son, she had denied that she ever remained here for visitors! If she had not a guilty conscience, if in her relations with Marvin there were nothing to hide, she would not, of course, find it necessary to lie. A dangerous wench! Marvin could thank his father for saving him from her. Mr. Creighton felt ruthless.

With his usual directness he came to his point. "You were expecting my son? That was, of course, his car that stopped here and then, at sight of mine, drove on—wasn't it?"

"Not being an adept at seeing through a brick wall, Mr. Creighton, I don't know."

Her evading a direct answer to his every question only confirmed him in his darkest apprehensions.

"Miss Schwenckton," he said abruptly, "I would make it worth your while to resign from this school and go away."

"Away from your son, Mr. Creighton?" she inquired pleasantly.

"Exactly."

"But in these days of airships whither can I flee that he cannot follow? If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, or ascend up into heaven, or make my bed in hell—"

"What is it worth to you to get out of this neighborhood and stay out?"

"Well, not being very experienced in these transactions—"

"Not very," she impudently repeated, "so I'll have to ask your advice. What's the most I ought to ask? I want to do as well as I can for myself, of course."

"Come, Miss Schwenckton, I'm serious—please don't try to play the fool with me! You must know that I could get rid of you less expensively. A few words from me to your trustees, and you would lose your position. But I've no desire to injure you. I prefer to help you—"

"Help me out of the neighborhood?"

"I'll amply compensate you for the loss of your school and something substantial over."

"You really and truly are offering me money to give up this darned school and go away?"

"I am."

"But," she exclaimed, a glad surprise coming into her eyes, "this is the first time in all my life that I've had money thrust at me! Will you give me any amount I ask?"

"Of course not—you'll have to be reasonable," he protested, feeling shocked that a girl who looked like this should after all be sordid and unprincipled.

"Just what would you call reasonable, Mr. Creighton?"

"Name what it's worth to you to leave and then I'll answer you."

"Well, then, let me see—well, I'll take my railroad fare to Hollywood and enough more to support me (and my family) for six months while I'm convincing the picture makers at Hollywood what a gold mine I'd be for them."

"Your family? You're not going to tell me you have some children to support?"

"No, I won't go so far as that. Only some parents. Two helpless little parents."

"If I give you a check for five thousand dollars, when will you leave?"

Meely caught her breath. The sum seemed vast to her. A thousand pounds! It would liberate her from this schoolroom prison, relieve her mother's needs and waft her to far-away California with a sense of ease and security such as she had not known in many years!

"If you will sign this statement, giving up all claims upon my son—"

He took a folded paper from his breast pocket and laid it on the desk in front of her, pushing aside the letter she had started to write to her mother.

"All right," she answered him gayly, though not at once signing the paper.

"And if I fail at Hollywood, I'll marry one of your sons and then my husband can pay back to you this loan—"

"One of my sons! I've only one son who'd be fool enough to give you the chance, young woman!"

"But Mr. Creighton," she asked in genuine curiosity, "how did you find out about us? Did St. Croix talk in his sleep?"

Mr. Creighton stared at her. Now why, he wondered, was she putting up a bluff like that?—pretending it was St. Croix!

"St. Croix!" he repeated, with a laugh. "Don't waste your talents, Miss Schwenckton, trying to deceive me! My son, St. Croix, will never cause me a moment's anxiety as to his choice of a wife!"

"A wife!" she breathed. "My—goodness! What's all this about, anyway?"

"I'm sure you know quite well what it's all about."

"If it's not about St. Croix, I don't!" She looked so sincerely puzzled and astonished that for an instant he believed her—almost.

But only for an instant. "I'll never be so stupid as to give any girl five thousand dollars to keep St. Croix from marrying her!" he repeated.

"But—but," she faltered, "if it's Marvin you've been talking about—do you mean Marvin? But you can't possibly—but what on earth makes you think Marvin wants to—"

She pulled herself up with a jerk; if she were not careful he would realize that there was no least need for his paying her that bribe! "Oh, if it's Marvin you mean," she rattled on, "then I'll reconsider! I don't think I can sign away Marvin! Or, if I do, that'll really cost you something! Marvin is really worth something!"

"You're mistaken. He's worth the puny salary he makes—fifty-six hundred dollars a year. Not a dollar more."

"I know—I didn't mean that kind of worth. I meant human worth. I wouldn't, however, get money from you, Mr. Creighton, on false pretenses. I really have my doubts whether Marvin would want a wife who could not tell how many states there are in his country. Do you think he would?"

"I'll tell you what sort of a wife Marvin wouldn't want when you've signed that paper."

Without a moment's hesitation she took up her pen and affixed her name, "Amelia Schwenckton," to the statement that she gave up all claims of every description upon the son of Mr. Creighton.

"How unbusiness-like you are!" he said as he received the paper from her hands and tucked it into his breast pocket. "To sign this and give it over to me before I have given you my check."

He took from another pocket a bank book and rapidly filled out and tore off a check.

"Now, then," he said, not at once handing it to her, "when will you go?"

"I think I ought to give the trustees a chance to get a teacher in my place, don't you? Think of all those children running round loose for days without getting educated! My conscience won't stand for it!"

"A conscience that can stand for bribes—"

"But your conscience seems to stand for them! If you think bribes so base, why do you go round offering bribes to your sons' prospective wives? Corrupting the Poor Working Girl! By the way, Mr. Creighton, this won't be a bribe, it will be a loan. I'll pay you back—if I have to marry one of your sons in order to. For I prophesy, Mr. Creighton, that when you know me better, you're going to want me for a daughter-in-law! Oh, yes, you are! When I come back from Hollywood I'll prove it to you—for I'll stop and pay you a visit. Or, I'll stop off and be your cook until I've earned that five thousand dollars. In America a cook must earn five thousand dollars in the bat of an eye—"

"A conscience that can stand for bribes—"

"When will you leave?" he sharply repeated.

"The very moment I've the wherewithal to leave!"

"But," he informed her in a firm tone as he handed her the check, "if you dare to come around here again, you will be dealt with, Miss Schwenckton, in a more summary manner than you will like!"

"I'm afraid, Mr. Creighton, I'll have trouble cashing this—and it would put you in such a funny light, giving five thousand dollars to such a dangerously alluring girl as I am apparently! If you've the real money about you—"

He had been wondering whether she would prove so sophisticated as to realize that. He had no intention, really, of letting her leave the room with that check.

"You are indeed 'experienced,' Miss Schwenckton, for one so young!" he said ironically as he took back the check and gave her a roll of bills—ten five-hundred-dollar notes.

And it was at the very moment of her receiving those that again the sound of a car stopping outside interrupted them.

"He's come back again," said Mr. Creighton bitterly, "in the hope that by this time I'd be gone! You have played your game well!"

"And this time," she answered blithely, her head bent to listen, "though your car is still there, he doesn't seem to be driving away again."

Little did they dream that the first car that had stopped and then driven on had carried away Mrs. Creighton, who, the moment she had recognized her husband's car parked nearby, had been startlingly convinced that Marvin's fantastic suspicions of a plot between his father and Lady Sylvia St. Croix was not after all fantastic! For what else in the world could bring her husband to the schoolhouse?

She had decided, after a moment's debating with herself, not to intrude upon their conference. She would let Marvin know, when she saw him on Thursday, what she had discovered. It was so evident that he was deeply interested in the girl—his interest too deep to be turned to aversion by the fact that she was Lady Sylvia St. Croix and in league with his father to intrigue him into marrying her?—as he had declared such a fact would disgust him!

A half hour after she had driven away, Marvin, driving out toward Abilene, felt, as he drew near William Penn schoolhouse, that that spot was fast becoming to him the pivot on which his whole universe turned!

As he came nearer, the sight of a car standing before the little building made his heart sink like lead in his breast. Was Miss Schwenckton having a rendezvous again with St. Croix?

As soon, however, as he was near enough to recognize the car, he saw, to his startled surprise, that it was not St. Croix, but his father's! Instantly he was convinced, just as his mother had been, that his suspicion of a collusion between "Miss Schwenckton" and his father, to entrap him into a marriage, had been well founded.

He did not, with his mother's delicacy, decide not to intrude upon them. On the contrary, he lost not a moment in parking, alighting, and striding straight into the schoolhouse to confront them—his heart and brain in a whirl.

At the sound of his approaching step they had stepped down from the platform. Mr. Creighton's face stern as the Judgment day, Miss Schwenckton's as interested as if she were in a theater seeing a play as they stood looking expectantly toward the door.

Marvin's long stride halted at sight of them.

"Well?" his father peremptorily inquired. "What are you doing here?"

"My duty as the county superintendent. Earning my salary."

"An easy, pleasant way to earn it—calling after work on your young teachers?"

"I'm here much oftener during school hours," answered Marvin, wondering whether this tone of displeasure were assumed and why.

"You wished to see me about something, Mr. Creighton?" Miss Schwenckton addressed Marvin composedly—the elder Creighton recalling that she had spoken of him as "Marvin."

"Only to investigate," replied Marvin, "why, at this hour, your school is still open."

HELEN THROUGH AS FIGHT FAN

Witnessed Recent Walker-Willis Bout at Frisco.

Miss Helen Willis, women's tennis champion, who attended the recent Mickey Walker-Jack Willis prize fight at San Francisco, made known afterward that she never wanted to see another ring battle.

"Unless," she added, "I might have the opportunity to see Mr. Tunney some day. I understand he boxes and does not fight. I think I might like that."

Miss Willis attended the bout after she received the approval of her parents that it was "perfectly all right for women to attend prize fights if they wanted to."

"The fight was very interesting," said Miss Willis. "But I do not want to go again. Tennis is the only game, and I do not believe that anyone who really loves tennis like I do could ever become a fight fan. The two sports are so different it is hard to talk about them together."

"But I really was agreeably surprised at the way things were handled. It was so much nicer and more comfortable than I expected it would be, but I was surprised that there were so few women there."

"What particularly interested and fascinated me was the beautiful play of muscles displayed during the fight, and the footwork."

"Yes, I am glad I went, but I am quite sure I shall never go to another fight. You know, I have yet to see a six-day bicycle race and an ice hockey game. I want to see everything in the line of sports, at least once."

"Lefty" Grove Learning to Save His Strength

When "Lefty" Grove broke into the American league three years ago it was predicted he would develop into the game's greatest strike-out hurler since Rube Waddell.

Grove has lived up to all expectations. He has been the strike-out king of his league for three years.

Despite his formidable record, Grove has been gradually cutting down on his speed and does not throw them close to exhaustion near the tail end.

Major leaguers are harder to pitch to. When Grove first broke in they would wait him out and let him blaze away for six or seven innings with the result that he would be close to exhaustion near the tail end of the game.

Grove repeatedly was beaten in this manner until Mack and his assistants got together and instructed the tall left-hander to conserve his energy and rely on a curve ball and a change of pace more than his natural "smoke."

Since doing that Grove has become the most valuable southpaw in baseball.

Bill Tilden Saves Glaring Privilege

The American privilege of glaring at the officials, whether it be in baseball, boxing or tennis, was saved to the tennis players of the land, it was learned, by "Big Bill" Tilden when this right was on trial at the United States Lawn Tennis association meeting recently.

Advocates of the English code offered a regulation forbidding the players glaring at the officials.

Tilden rose with some choice remarks and some very impressive glaring, and the rule against dirty looks was voted down.

FUNDS FOR PRESIDIO ROAD IMPROVEMENTS EXPECTED

Appropriation by Congress of the sum of $47,200 for improvement of the roads in the Presidio at San Francisco is expected to receive favorable action at this session, the California State Automobile Association has recently been advised in a letter from Congresswoman Florence P. Kahn.

The State Association, through its affiliation with the American Automobile Association, is supporting before the House Military Affairs committee Mrs. Kahn's bill providing for this appropriation.

Now that the idea of March is past, the only worry is that the income tax return may still have to be investigated.

THE REAL COST OF MEXICAN LABOR

Shortly after the passage of the law restricting European immigration we emitted a hollow, mocking laugh in these columns anent the stupidity of closing the front door and keeping out Norwegians, Irishmen, Englishmen, Germans and Hollanders while allowing unrestricted numbers of Mexicans to pour in through the wide open back door. Now that observation is bearing fruit. Everybody is beginning to be exercised over a situation the results of which were obvious the moment the law was passed. Nobody disputes the fact that immigrants from northern Europe fit far better into the American scene than swarms of Mexicans. From the national standpoint it would be better to class Mexicans with Orientals and exclude them entirely, students, tourists and merchants excepted. There is bitter opposition to so drastic a step, though. Farmers, railroads and mine operators of the border states are objecting vigorously to any reduction in the stream of cheap labor flowing across the border at the rate of hundreds of thousands a year. They say they can't get along without Mexican labor, that it is badly needed for seasonal peaks.

Undoubtedly it is true that cheap and abundant Mexican help is enabling many Southwestern farmers to get by; undoubtedly it is also true that the cost of railroad and mine operation would be increased if the supply of Mexican labor were reduced through the application of the quota system. On the other hand, many white families would find employment at tasks now reserved for Mexican labor. Much disease would be excluded and the burden on city and county charitable institutions would be materially diminished. Today the Mexican pauper and indigent sick eat up one-half or more of the charity and public health appropriations in many communities along the border.

In other words, farmers, railroads and mine operators get their Mexican labor cheap because the taxpayer comes to the rescue and feeds them when they are out of work, hospitalizes them when they are sick.

If the farmers or miners of the Southwest need a subsidy to survive, let's pay it to them in some other form than through the importation of hordes of aliens who cannot be assimilated. The present price is too high.—April Sunset.

PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC VICTIMS ARE MAINLY AGED PERSONS

Be careful of elderly persons in traffic. Aged persons are the most likely to become pedestrian victims of traffic accidents.

The average age of eighty-six adult pedestrians who were killed in automobile accidents in San Francisco last year was 60 years, according to an analysis of motor vehicle fatality statistics made by C. C. Cottrell, traffic engineer of the California State Automobile Association. More than one-half of the pedestrian fatalities in motor vehicle mishaps were persons over 60 years of age, the Association's public safety department announces.

The figures show that there is a sharp line of demarcation between children and middle aged persons, and a similar line between the middle-aged and the elderly who possess less agility. Of the 156 deaths in automobile accidents in the city last year, 97 were pedestrian fatalities.

Following is the age table of pedestrian fatalities: Sixty years and over, 49; 50 to 59 years, 16; 40 to 49 years, 9; 30 to 39 years, 6; 20 to 29 years, 3; 10 to 19 years, 2; under 10 years, 9.

BACK FROM THE TOMB

A weird story concerning the mother of General Robert E. Lee is told by Warfield Lee, of Cattlesburg, Kentucky, a grandnephew of the famous chieftain. While the incident he relates is not mentioned in historical works, he declares it to be true.

It is said that Mrs. Lee apparently died after a long illness in 1806, and after lying in state in the home for several days the body was placed in the family mausoleum. On the seventh day after her supposed death the sexton entered the vault to lay flowers on the casket when he heard faint calls of "Help, help, help." He rushed from the tomb, but later returned after deciding that what he had heard was only imagined sounds.

While strewing the flowers over the glass lid of the coffin he saw the lips of Mrs. Lee quiver. She was taken to the house, restoratives administered, and her rapid recovery followed.

Fifteen months later Robert E. Lee, who was to become the idol of the South, was born. His mother lived until 1829, the year in which Lee graduated from West Point.

If the story is true, it shows how near the world came to being deprived of one of its greatest characters. It also illustrates what caution should be exercised to prevent the possibility of burying anyone alive.

It is said that during a recent cold snap New England bootleggers put alcohol into their stuff to keep it from freezing.

Overser Voliva declares that he has had a commission from Hades. Probably a helleggram.

EPIC, RUIN AND ROSES

By Wesley Strong.

The cathedral tower strikes out the hour,
And calls the peasant from his bed.
A grey tomb she rules the gloom,
And watches the Aisles of Dead.
Lapped the tears of a hundred years
And vainly sang her song;
Laughed and grinned, pardoned the sinned,
Railed the passing throng.

From the skies to lustful eyes—
A flash from a Mighty Hand!
And e'er it must—Dust unto dust,
Temples of Sin unto Sand!

The foreign shore the havoc of war,
Flung its eager arm;
Called the slave and royal suave,
The coolie from the farm.

Shoulder and side they quickly stride
To the fields of flowers and green,
In the trench remote they cut either throat,
And mowed the landscape lean.

Homeward they walk—lean and gawk;
The clouds passed slowly by.
The royal suave and the lowly slave
Came home to rest and die.

In crypts of dread, in the aisles of dead,
Where the tower longly fell,
They dragged their souls, all riddled with holes;
Then chimed the cathedral bell!

Here within the tower of sin,
The riddled figures lie prone,
The tower poses in a bed of roses
And welcomes the dying home.

A total of seven important German cities became available to telephone subscribers throughout the United States following the addition on Monday morning, March 19, of Bremen, Cologne, Dusseldorf and Mannheim to the present list of German cities already reached via the transatlantic telephone service. The cities to which service had already been established are Berlin, Hamburg and Frankfurt-on-Main. The four cities thus made available for transatlantic service have a total population of 1,715,000, not including the trade areas which they serve, and add a total of 152,500 foreign telephones to those which may now be reached by American subscribers.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR MOTORISTS AND PEDESTRIANS

The following constitute the five rules for safe driving and safe walking in Daly City:

For Pedestrians

1. Cross only at street crossings.
2. Don't cross directly behind a street car.
3. Wait until traffic stops before starting across the street.
4. Don't cross diagonally; walk at right angles.
5. Look both ways as you cross.

For Motorists

1. Look out for children; you never know what they are going to do.
2. Give the pedestrian a chance.
3. Drive carefully ALWAYS; you will get there just the same.
4. Keep your brakes in order; it's cheaper.
5. Study traffic regulations and obey them. Ignorance of the law is no excuse.

BARRIER TO EXTENSION OF BAY SHORE ROAD REMOVED

The last link connecting San Francisco with Redwood City by the Bay Shore boulevard is now assured, according to an announcement made by E. B. Hinman, president of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce. He announced that deeds to all of the property except one piece, which will be settled at once, are now in the hands of the committee and will be turned over to the State Highway Commission.

The Bay Shore Boulevard ended at Broadway, Burlingame, in its first stretch from San Francisco down the Peninsula, and during the past year special committees have secured deeds to the property through Burlingame and San Mateo, permitting the continuation of the highway to Fifth avenue, San Mateo. The Redwood City Chamber of Commerce then undertook the task of getting deeds to the property between San Mateo and Redwood City and several months of concentrated effort have been rewarded with deeds to every piece of property necessary for the highway.

The Redwood City Chamber of Commerce will ask the immediate construction of the road. The surfacing and paving will, however, not be completed until 1929 or 1930.

DECLARES BANCITALY NOT PLANNING EXTRA PROFITS

A. P. Giannini, president of the Bancitaly Corporation, according to a United Press dispatch, has announced that there will be no extra, special or stock dividends declared this year by the corporation. The present dividend of $2.24 on Bancitaly stock will not be increased during the year, he said. Giannini also announced that holders of stock of the Bancitaly Corporation will be given the opportunity to purchase stock of the recently acquired Bank of America of New York.

In announcing that there would be no special profits to Bancitaly stockholders, Giannini is quoted as saying: "In fairness to the present stockholders and the general public, as well as future investors, I am making this announcement so that those who are contemplating the purchase of our stock may guide themselves accordingly."

One of the influences that caused this warning, it was learned, was the report that a group of San Franciscans had been negotiating in Wall Street for $5,000,000 to be used in loans on Giannini stock.
